

WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH 2018

On March 11 Fairfax Museum and Visitor Center and the Commission for Women sponsored a historical performance by Kate Campbell Stevenson portraying iconic women of American history: Bessie Coleman, African American aviatrix; Louise Arner Boyd, Arctic explorer; and Rachel Carson, scientist and conservationist. Ms. Stevenson concluded the performance by highlighting contemporary women role models in science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM). The program, Women Back to the Future — Nevertheless She Persisted! embraced the theme of 2018 National Women's History Month. The program was held in City Hall Annex.

Commission for Women Chair, Patricia Addison, welcomes guests.

City of Fairfax Museum and Visitor Center Curator Susan Gray introduces actress and historical interpreter Kate Campbell Stevenson.

Historical interpreter Kate Campbell Stevenson singing.

Kate Campbell Stevenson portrays aviatrix Bessie Coleman.

Kate Campbell Stevenson portrays arctic explorer Louise Archer.

Kate Campbell Stevenson portrays polar explorer Louise Archer.

Kate Campbell Stevenson portrays scientist and conservationist Rachel Carson.